

Organize Files

This project is a Python script that helps you organize files in a directory by grouping them into separate folders based on their last modification date and file extensions.

Getting Started

To get started with this project, follow the instructions below:

1. create a empty directory to put organized files there
2. run the below script:

```
python organize_files.py <source_folder> <destination_folder>
```